Recommendations

Due to multiple complaints regarding the conifers. I have had been instructed to provide a brief note to why the conifers should be removed.

Upon visiting the property, it becomes apparent the cypress trees have outgrown their location and are now at a size where ongoing maintenance is essential to keep them in check.

The understory planting and lawn has also been compromised due the lack of moisture and nutrients within the soil caused by the extensive root system of the conifers.

The conifers could be heavily cut back but this would be detrimental to their long term health and aesthetically displeasing. For these reasons I would recommend removing them and replanting a more size appropriate and native tree.

The cypress themselves are in good health and despite them being one of the species for filtering out particles, they unfortunately due to not being maintained are now prime candidates to be removed. This will allow for the garden to be renovated and I would encourage that the new plant scheme includes wildlife encouraging plants and a tree that will better suit the location.
