Details of the pre-application advice received

Explanation on why permitted development was not the right application our consultants used.
Validated that the plans and drawings used previously would be sufficient for this new planning application
Covered rules around conservation conditions eg has to be of similar materials
Also advised that although planning is not normally required for a reversible air source heat pump to put it in the application to cover any potential come back given a conservation area. Also advised that if in the unlikely event that the location of the outdoor unit is deemed inappropriately placed a non-material amendment could be required.
