The tree is a 'feeble' self seeded Walnut in a hedge fronting London Rd. It has a healthy 'twin' 10 metres along that hedge. It is two/three 'boles' from one root. It stands beside a Holly and a European or Norway Maple. Its branches are thin but stretch out to/over London Rd. It has already 'lost' long branches that have fallen into the garden or hedge. It appears to be only a matter of time before the branch over London Road fall. I have had an arboriculturist friend and a separate tree surgeon who both recommend its removal to help restore the other trees that it's shading and damaging. Herts Tree Care have quoted me for the work. The quotation includes work on the Maple but I am loath to cut any of this glorious tree! I include that quotation as Ref:- Horseshoe Farm 2
